CHAMPIONSHIP QUALIFICATIONS

A player must have a minimum of 502 plate appearances (at-bats, walks, hit-by-pitch, sacrifices, sacrifice flies and catcher's interference) to qualify for a major league batting-percentage championship.

If a batter falls short of 502 plate appearances, he might still be determined the batting champion if by adding a sufficient number of at-bats to his record to bring his plate appearances up to 502, his average based on these additional at-bats is still the highest in the league. His actual average, however, would be the official.

To qualify for the ERA title, a pitcher must pitch a minimum of 162 innings.

DID YOU KNOW???

... that the best single gate attraction for the Twins in a season was the 1962 New York Yankees, who drew 352,479 fans over 9 dates at Metropolitan Stadium. That average of 39,164 per opening is also the best any opponent has done in a season here. On the road, the Twins' best showing came in New York in 1965, when they attracted 247,769 over 8 dates. Their best average per-date, however, came last year in Detroit when they drew an average of 39,128 for their 4 appearances in Tiger Stadium.

A civic, business and banking industry leader in the Twin Cities for many years, Carl R. Pohlad completed purchase of the Minnesota Twins from the Griffith organization last September 7. Mr. Pohlad has always had a keen sense of community responsibility and he stepped forward to take control of the Twins in line with that philosophy. It's his firm feeling that major league sports, particularly baseball, are vital to the standard of living any on-going community must strive to achieve. A native of Valley Junction (now West Des Moines), Iowa, Mr. Pohlad attended Gonzaga University in Spokane, Washington, before going into business in Iowa. It was after World War II that he and his wife, Eloise, settled in the Twin Cities, where they've raised their family of three sons and built their business empire.

PRESIDENT

With a background of close to forty years in the game, Howard Fox became president of the Twins on September 7, 1984, when the mantle of ownership passed from Calvin Griffith to Carl Pohlad. A vice-president of the team since 1965, Mr. Fox came into the organization as a minor league general manager in the late 1940's. He ascended to the major league level as publicity director of the Washington Senators, predecessor of the Twins, in 1953. Two years later, he became traveling secretary, a role he continued to fill through the 1981 season, although over the years he gradually assumed more and more of the duties normally associated with a general-managership position. Howard and his wife, Yvonne, make their home in Long Lake.

They're the parents of four grown sons.

MANAGER

GARDNER, William Frederick

'Slick'

No. 42

Born July 19, 1927, in New London, Connecticut. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 185 lbs. Batted and threw righthanded. Married. Lives in Waterford, Connecticut.

It was his 40th year in baseball, 1984 was, but it may have been the most gratifying one yet for popular Twins' manager Billy Gardner.

It's a long way from Bristol, Tennessee/Virginia, to a last-ditch pennant-drive in the American League.

It's a long way from second place in the Appalachian League to a near miss in the American League West.

Gardner made those journeys, though, and while the road wasn't always paved with 'uppers,' he'll be the first to tell you he wouldn't give back a minute of the time spent along the way. He made the World Series twice as a player ... with the Giants in 1954 and the Yankees in 1961. That was great baseball. But Billy will also tell you that the baseball played in Bristol, Sioux City, Jacksonville, Jersey City, Ottawa, Nashville and other places along the minor league rialto is just as real and just as vibrant.

That's because Billy Gardner is a 'baseball man,' the highest compliment you can give to a 'baseball man.'

Although he's not averse to selling a little meat during the off-season, Gardner's world is a summertime one. His uniform parts are the clothes he calls 'comfortable.' The ballpark is his 'territory.' Billy Gardner's a 'baseball man.'

Billy's been married for better than 30 years to a one-time Miss Connecticut, the former Barbara Carnaroli. Their children are Gwen, Shelly and Billy, Jr., a Twins' draftee of last June who's now attending Rhode Island College.

His family has watched Billy, Sr., go from a 20-year playing career, to a 12-year minor league managing stint, to the helm of the Twins on May 22, 1981. The first couple of seasons were no picnic as the Twins were in the throes of a complete rebuilding effort. A light began to shine at the end of the tunnel in 1983, however, when the Twins won 10 more games than they'd won the year before ... and 27 more than they'd been able to rack up in strike-torn 1981.

In 1984, the light became a beacon. The players that Billy had nursed along through their apprenticeships began to respond to his subtle (and sometimes not so subtle!) urgings. The team's confidence and desire became daily more apparent as the 1984 season moved into high gear. They were in and out of first place several times during the early months of the season, but when they took the lead, August 5, for what was to be a 33-day stretch, that confidence and desire became outright belief ... belief in themselves and belief in the guy who could lead them to the top in 1985, Billy Gardner!

Gardner's 1984 efforts were recognized by league players in a year-end poll by USA Today when they voted him the American League's top manager. In the Baseball Writers Association of America ballot, Billy came in third behind Sparky Anderson and Dick Howser.

EARNED-RUNS RULE

The determination of earned-runs is as follows:

'An earned-run is a run for which the pitcher is held accountable. In determining earned-runs, the inning should be reconstructed without the errors and passed balls, and the benefit of the doubt should always be given to the pitcher in determining which bases would have been reached with errorless play.'

Until 1969, a reliever could not be charged with an earned-run if he entered the game after the side could have been retired but for an error, no matter how many runs he subsequently gave up in that inning. Now, runs scored by batters who reach base off the reliever are charged as earned on that pitcher's record. They are not, however, charged as earned against the team as a whole. Therefore, a discrepancy may occur between the total earned-runs charged against a team and the sum total of the earned-runs charged against the individual pitchers of that team.

KELLY, Jay Thomas

'Tom'

No. 41

Born August 15, 1950, in Graceville, Minnesota. Height: 5 ft., 11 in. Weight: 185 lbs. Batted and threw lefthanded. Married. Lives in Sayreville, New Jersey.

In his third season as Twins' third base coach, redheaded Tom Kelly has been an important factor in the Twins' improvement of 21 games in the win column during his tenure with the club. Of the 33 players on the Twins' active roster at the end of the 1984 season, 9 had played for Kelly, a Twins' farm system manager for five seasons, at some point in their progress toward the majors. So, an instant rapport awaited Tom when he arrived on the scene in 1983, and his instincts in the handling of young players have been put to good use by manager Billy Gardner. A first baseman-outfielder in his playing days, Kelly is a native Minnesotan because his dad was a Northern League pitcher for St. Cloud in the immediate post-war era who stuck around to play some of Minnesota's tough state amateur ball after his professional days were ended.

Tony Oliva is back in the Twins' first-base coaches' box after having served six years as the club's minor league hitting instructor. After eight seasons as the Twins' rightfielder . . . all of them as an All-Star selection and three of them as league batting champion . . . Oliva was obliged to sit out virtually the entire 1972 season due to an injury to his right knee. When he returned in 1973, he began a three-year stint as the team's designated-hitter, or until becoming a player-coach in 1976. By the end of that season, Tony's knee had disintegrated to the point that it was no longer possible for him to play and it was necessary for him to become a full-time coach. He was the team's batting and first base coach in 1977 and '78. The only player ever to win batting championships in his first two major league seasons, Oliva has been a full-time Minnesota resident ever since he first came north as the club's rightfielder for the start of the 1964 season. Tony finished in a tie for ninth place with Orlando Cepeda at 114 votes in last January's Hall of Fame balloting.

DID YOU KNOW???

. . . that 31 one-time Twins have gone on to become major league coaches, including 12 who are still active . . . among them Twins Tom Kelly and Tony Oliva.

Born September 30, 1932, in Witherbee, New York. Height: 5 ft., 11 in. Weight: 196 lbs. Batted and threw lefthanded. Married. Lives in Glens Falls, New York.

Now in his fifth season as Twins' pitching coach, Johnny Podres was reputed to have the finest change-up in the game, to go along with his good fastball and excellent breaking stuff, during his heyday as one of baseball's premiere pitchers in the 1950s and '60s. A competitor and a winner, Podres pitched in four World Series with the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers, who were always in contention during his twelve full seasons with them, and was named to three National League All-Star squads. He compiled a .561 win-percentage during his regular-season career, was 4-1 in World Series competition and 0-0, but unscored-upon, in two All-Star appearances.

Johnny's experience came to bear last year in the emergence of several members of the Twins' young pitching staff... most notably John Butcher, Mike Smithson and Frank Viola... as winning major league pitchers.

Coach, San Diego, 1973; Minor League Instructor, Boston, 1975-79; Coach, Boston, 1980; Coach, Twins, since 1981.

DID YOU KNOW???

... that before the Twins saw a 10-0 lead after 3 innings wind up as an 11-10 loss in Cleveland last September 28, the largest lead the club had previously squandered was an 8-runner, July 30, 1971, at Metropolitan Stadium. They led the Yankees, 9-1, after 5 innings in that game before going on to an 11-9 loss.

Born October 8, 1948, in Chicago, Illinois. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 195 lbs. Batted left, threw right. Married. Lives in Chicago.

A professional catcher for ten seasons and a minor league manager for three, Rick Stelmazek has held forth as 'boss' of the Twins' bullpen for the past five seasons. He, Johnny Podres and manager Billy Gardner all joined the Twins as coaches when the team's staff underwent a shuffling following the 1980 season, when Karl Kuehl stayed on as the only holdover from the staff employed by Gene Mauch during his tenure as Twins' manager from 1976 to 1980. Stelmazek replaced Jerry Zimmerman as bullpen coach under then-manager Johnny Goryl at the start of the 1981 season. Stelly had joined the Twins' organization three years previously when farm director George Brophy offered him a managerial job in the club's minor league system.

BROWN, Darrell Wayne

OF No. 26

Born October 29, 1955, in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 184 lbs. Bats both, throws right. Married. Lives in Los Angeles, California. Acquired: signed as free agent, December 14, 1982.

Darrell Brown's versatility stood the Twins in good stead in 1984. The speedy outfielder saw a good deal of activity in both left and centerfields, was pressed into action as a designated-hitter in 13 games, and was the team's second-best pinch-hitter . . . batting .280 in 39 tries. Brown's batting style seems to be especially well-suited for artificial turf. He batted .315, 53-for-168, on synthetic fields last season, as against 18-for-92, .196, on grass. The switch-hitter batted .293 against righthanders and .240 vs. southpaws. Since turning to switch-hitting in 1981, Darrell is 102-for-364, .280, batting lefthanded, 60-for-227, .264, from the right side. Brown got off to a fast start in '84, hitting safely in 11 of his first 12 games, including his lone career homer which came off Geoff Zahn to lead off the Twins' half of the game at the Metrodome, April 18. He tailed off after that, however, and when Kirby Puckett arrived on May 8, Darrell was relegated to reserve duty. His best day among 20 multi-hit games was a 3-for-4 effort against Boston's rookie standout Roger Clemens in the Metrodome, May 20.

BRUNANSKY, Thomas Andrew 'Tom' OF No. 24

Born August 20, 1960, in Covina, California. Height: 6 ft., 4 in. Weight: 211 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Single. Lives in Walnut, California. Acquired: trade with Angels, May 11, 1982.

In 1984, Tom Brunansky hit the most homeruns by a Twin since Harmon Killebrew connected for 41 in 1970, and in so doing Brunansky moved into eighth place among Twins' career homerun-hitters all-time and in 1985 should become the fourth to pass the century mark. Tom hit a pair of homers off Salome Barojas in Seattle, August 11. He's turned that trick six times in his three seasons with the Twins. Only five Twins have recorded more two-homer games than that. Brunansky got off to his usual slow start in 1984, batting as low as .231 on July 19. In his 70 games after that, however, he batted .282, including 18 of his homers and 44 of his runs-batted-in ... this in spite of the fact he was bothered by knee, wrist and back problems all season. Tom had the second 4-hit game of his career, May 22, connecting off Luis Leal in Toronto. He turned in the longest hitting streak of his career, a 15-gamer, August 14-28. An excellent outfielder, Brunansky had 13 assists last season, fourth in the league and second on the club to league-leader Kirby Puckett's 16. In just a little over three seasons in the majors, Tom already has a total of 40 assists. In each of the last two seasons, he's led major league outfielders in doubleplays, although the New York Mets' Mookie Wilson tied his total of 6 in '84.

Although 1984 was a disappointing season for Randy Bush, his quick bat earned him recognition in several offensive categories. Bush tied Toronto's Jesse Barfield for the American League pinch-hitting championship, each going 8-for-20, .400, making them a close second for major league honors to Philadelphia's Len Matuszek, who pinch-hit at a .417-clip. Randy led the Twins with 10 sacrifice flies and by grounding into just one double-play in 311 at-bats. He had the first 4-hit game of his career to spark a 14-4 win over Oakland in the Metrodome, July 23. He got his first grand-slam to beat Jim Slaton and California in the dome, July 28, and recorded his first inside-the-park round-tripper by connecting off Tom Seaver in a June 23 win over Chicago in the Metrodome. For the second straight year, a late-season hitless streak cost Bush points on his batting average as he went 30 times without a hit from August 16 to September 4. Except for spelling Kent Hrbek in two games during the last month, Randy was exclusively a designated-hitter and pinch-hitter in 1984.

One-half of what could turn out to be the most important trade-acquisition in Twins' history, righthander John Butcher proved a real life-saver for manager Billy Gardner's starting staff in 1984. Butcher pitched consistently well through the first three months of the season but stayed on a rigid win one, lose one streak through his first twelve decisions and was 6-6 at the All-Star break. He won 7 of his next 10 decisions, though, to go 4 games over .500 before suffering defeats in his last two starts of the season. His top game was a 3-hit, 3-0 win in Kansas City, June 15. John missed two starts after coming out of the April 26 game with New York suffering from a strained left side, but thereafter fulfilled every starting commitment. He established career highs for himself in wins, losses, starts, complete games, innings-pitched, walks and strikeouts. Butcher's had a remarkable career against Baltimore. He's 5-0 against the Orioles, with a 1.97 ERA ... 4-0, 1.80 of it in 1984. His lone win against them prior to joining the Twins was a one-hit, 2-0 win in Texas, August 16, 1983. When he fanned 7 Orioles in the Metrodome, July 2, John missed by one the career high he'd set for himself with Texas against California, October 2, 1981. Until they lost their last six games of the season, the Twins' longest losing skeins had been two 5-game streaks and two of 4 games. A gamer, Butcher stopped them all.

An ailing back that limited him to just eight games in 1984 and required a second surgical procedure last February 5 is the question mark that haunts the career of John Castino. A defensive marvel for three seasons at third base and two at second, in addition to being a tough out in the clutch, Castino first experienced problems with his back in July of 1980. By October, 1981, surgery became necessary to correct a spondylolisthesis condition, surgery requiring the fusion of vertebrae. Almost miraculously, John came back to play 117 games in 1982, and 142 in 1983. It was borrowed time, though, as a spring training collision in 1984 put him back on the shelf. Castino worked out faithfully, however, and by April 29 deemed himself ready to play once again. He played eight games at third base between then and May 7, hitting safely in each of them (going 3-for-4 on the 7th, in fact), including 4-for-4 with runners in scoring position, but the pain became simply too much. After a discouraging round of various treatments continuing into January, John finally decided that surgery was the only answer if he were to be able to lead a normal life, on or off a baseball field. Definitely sidelined for 1985, Castino can only cross his fingers regarding a career resumption in 1986. John hopes to contribute to the Twins in some off-the-field capacity until that hoped-for time when he'll be able to put the uniform on once again. With Alfredo Griffin of Toronto, Castino was named the league's Co-Rookie of the Year in 1979. He led league third sackers with a .975-percentage in 1981; set the pace with 31 third-base doubleplays in 1979; and tied Baltimore's Doug DeCinces for the league tops of 86 putouts at third in 1981, after tying DeCinces with 340 league-leading assists in 1980. Offensively, John led the loop in triples in 1981. He was voted by the Twin Cities' Baseball Writers as the Twins' Most Valuable Player in 1980 and again in 1983.

himself ready to play once again. He played eight games at third base between then and May 7, hitting safely in each of them (going 3-for-4 on the 7th, in fact), including 4-for-4 with runners in scoring position, but the pain became simply too much. After a discouraging round of various treatments continuing into January, John finally decided that surgery was the only answer if he were to be able to lead a normal life, on or off a baseball field. Definitely sidelined for 1985, Castino can only cross his fingers regarding a career resumption in 1986. John hopes to contribute to the Twins in some off-the-field capacity until that hoped-for time when he'll be able to put the uniform on once again. Born May 18, 1958, in Hollywood, California. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 170 lbs. Bats and throws lefthanded. Single. Lives in San Dimas, California. Acquired: 8th round, June, 1980, free-agent draft.

In the 2nd inning of the first game of a twi-niter in Detroit last June 29, Andre David hit Jack Morris' 1-2 pitch into the second deck in rightfield to become the fourth Twin (Rick Renick, Dave McKay and Gary Gaetti) and the 49th major leaguer (24th American Leaguer) to belt a homerun on his first trip to the plate in the bigs. By starting in rightfield in that game, David also became the 300th player to participate in a game as a Twin. The trail began for Andre at Chatsworth, California, High School, on to Los Angeles Valley Junior College, then to Cal State-Fullerton (where he was a mainstay of their 1979 College World Series champions) and finally to the Twins' organization in the June draft of 1980 . . . this after he'd passed up signing when the Twins made him their 14th pick in the June, 1979, draft. He attained the major league grade when he was purchased from Toledo last June 25, with Mike Hart going back to the Mud Hens. Outside of his debut, David's biggest day in the majors came on August 12 when he went 4-for-5 off Mike Moore to spark a Twins' win in Seattle. On August 25, Andre walked with the bases loaded in the 12th inning at the Metrodome to give the Twins their only win of the season over Toronto. David was named the Southern League's Player of the Week for July 26-August 1, 1982, when he batted .450 for the week.

Fifth in saves in the American League, Ron Davis also placed fifth with 61 points in the Rolands Relief Man sweepstakes in 1984. In The Sporting News' Fireman of the Year program, Davis finished in a tie for fourth with New York's Dave Righetti. In three seasons as a Twin, Ron has chalked up 81 saves, beating Ron Perranoski's (1968-71) club-record 75. Davis has entered Twins' games in 105 save situations, giving him a 77% success ratio. His 57 games-finished in '84 were fourth in the league and eighth in the majors. Since joining the Twins after four games of the 1982 season, Ron has figured (15 wins, 81 saves) in 42% of the Twins' 228 wins over that period. He'd come to the Twins from New York, with pitcher Paul Boris and infielder Greg Gagne for pitcher Gary Serun and shortstop Roy Smalley. Davis began his career in the Chicago Cubs' organization when they made him their third choice in the free-agent draft of January, 1976. The Cubs traded him to the Yankees for pitcher Ken Holtzman, June 10, 1978. A menacing figure for righthand batters, who solved him for a collective average of just .253 in 1984, Ron is also tough on left-hand hitters. They were just a touch better against him at .261. During the season, he stranded 70% (46) of the 66 baserunners he inherited.

ROOKIE DEFINITION

A new rookie rule with slightly more liberal standards than the previous regulation written in 1958 was put into effect beginning with the 1973 season. This definition provides that a player shall be considered a rookie if he has not exceeded 130 at-bats or 50 innings-pitched in a previous major league season or seasons, and if he has not accumulated more than 45 days on the active roster of a major league club or clubs during the period of the 25-man player limit (excluding time in military service).

Born November 30, 1956, in San Diego, California. Height: 6 ft., 3 in. Weight: 216 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in San Diego. Acquired: trade with Angels, February 3, 1979.

The Twins' All-Star Game representative in 1984, catcher Dave Engle suffered through an injury-plagued season that caused him to see just limited action over the last two months, or after he sprained his left wrist in a home-plate collision with Jack Perconte in Seattle, August 9. The condition persisted until, finally, Engle's wrist was placed in a cast on September 18, ending his season. Dave had earlier suffered a sterno-clavicular sprain on April 27, when Donnie Hill crashed into him at home plate in Oakland. That caused Engle to miss two weeks. Then, on May 25, he suffered a sprain of the left knee in a game against Milwaukee. In spite of those injuries, Dave was batting .310 at All-Star time, although he became one of five players not used in the game by American League manager Joe Altobelli. Engle, the Twins' player representative, has been a catcher for just two seasons. He's thrown out 37 of the 136 runners (27%) who've tried to steal on him in that time. The 1980 International League batting champion, Dave is an effective hitter coming off the bench, logging a .288 average in 22 games as a designated-hitter in '84. He's especially tough vs. lefthand pitching, with a .276 (138-for-500) career average. Overall, he was the toughest Twin to strike out in '84, fanning just once for every 17.8 at-bats. Engle's father, Roy, grew up with Ted Williams in San Diego and for many years served as baseball director for Williams' summer camp in Massachusetts, where Dave cut his teeth on baseball. Engle's first at-bat of 1985 will be his 1200th in the bigs.

ESPINOZA, Alvaro Alberto

'Espy'

SS No. 1

Born February 19, 1962, in Valencia, Venezuela. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 170 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Valencia. Acquired: signed as free agent, March 18, 1982.

Although he has yet to appear in a big league game, shortstop Alvaro Espinoza reported in to the Twins last September 10, after a good season in the International League. He'd made the jump to AAA out of the class A ranks. For the third season in a row, Espinoza proved to be the toughest batter in his league to walk ... just three times in 368 plate appearances! In his professional career, Alvaro has walked only 52 times in 1547 trips to the plate, an average of once every 29.8 plate appearances. A good bunter, Espinoza tied with teammate Tack Wilson for the International League lead in sacrifices last year, 16. Signed by scout Hank Izquierdo after he'd been released by the Houston organization, Alvaro came on strong with his hitting as the season progressed last year as evidenced by a 4-for-5 game he turned in at Richmond, August 30. Espinoza played with the Aragua Tigers of the Venezuelan League last winter. He was hitless in his first 40 at-bats for the Tigers but came on strong to finish the winter season at .231 by batting .284 in his last 176 at-bats.

P No. 23

Born September 28, 1958, in Darby, Pennsylvania. Height: 6 ft., 2 in. Weight: 195 lbs. Bats both, throws left. Married. Lives in Folsom, Pennsylvania. Acquired: trade with Yankees, May 12, 1982.

A starter throughout his minor league career, lefthander Pete Filson has been used as a reliever for the most part since first joining the Twins in 1982.

In fact, 68 of his 86 big league outings have been in relief. That could change in 1985, however, as manager Billy Gardner and pitching coach Johnny Podres envision Filson as a possible addition to the Twins' starting rotation. In 48 relief appearances last year, though, Pete turned in a 4-3 record, with a 3.63 ERA, and earned a save of the Twins' 6-1 win in Kansas City, June 16, by hurling three scoreless innings. He struck out six batters in a hitless three innings against Toronto in the Metrodome, August 26. Of the 44 runners Filson inherited over the season, he allowed just 12 (27%) to score. Pete won his first three decisions of 1984, his first full season in the majors, but dropped his last three after winning his sixth game in a strong starting effort against Seattle, July 30.

GAETTI, Gary Joseph

'G-Man'

3B No. 8

Born August 19, 1958, in Centralia, Illinois. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 193 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Eden Prairie, Minnesota. Acquired: 1st round secondary, June, 1979, free-agent draft.

The first Twin to play every game in a season since Roy Smalley in 1979, Gary Gaetti missed only eight innings all season and, in fact, has a 166-game consecutive playing streak going into 1985. Gaetti played a superb third base for the Twins, although he played eight games in leftfield during John Castino's brief stint with the club, and he also filled in at shortstop in two games.

Gary led league third basemen with 142 putouts, 334 assists and 496 total chances in '84, after setting the pace with 154 games, 131 putouts and 46 doubleplays in 1983. Offensively, Gaetti worked diligently on cutting down his strikeout-ratio last year and succeeded remarkably well. The only negative is that in cutting down on his strikeouts, he also experienced a severe decline in his homerun-production. Besides games, Gary also led the Twins in at-bats and stolen-base percentage, .688 (11 out of 16). In addition, he had the team's longest hitting streak of '84, 16 games, from August 5 to August 19. Gaetti was especially tough against the world champion Detroit Tigers, batting .349 (15-for-43) against them.

GAGNE, Gregory Carpenter 'Gags' 3B-SS No. 31

Born November 12, 1961, in Fall River, Massachusetts. Height: 5 ft., 11 in. Weight: 185 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Single. Lives in Somerset, Massachusetts. Acquired: trade with Yankees, April 10, 1982.

Infielder Greg Gagne was on the International League sidelines from mid-May until mid-July, 1984, with a hairline fracture of the lower left leg. Gagne had gotten off to a slow start with the Toledo Mud Hens, although he belted two homers in a game against Rochester on May 8, just a few days before his injury, but his production picked up considerably after his return to action on July 18. Batting .245 at that point, Greg batted .304 over the final 41 games of the season to post the second-highest average among those players (Tack Wilson hit .287) who finished the season with Toledo. Gagne was switched to third base last season, although injuries to other infielders resulted in his playing several games at both shortstop and second base. He'd been primarily a shortstop until 1984. In fact, he led International League shortstops with 364 assists and 599 total chances in 1983. Greg got in ten games at shortstop with the Twins in June and September of 1983, but his two September appearances last year were as a pinch-runner and a pinch-hitter.

THE METRODOME

This is the Twins' fourth season in the beautiful new Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome, the second domed facility to come into use in the American League and the third in the majors.

The Twins' first 21 seasons in Minnesota were played in Metropolitan Stadium in Bloomington, where the club led the American League in total attendance for their first ten years of operations, 1961-70, with an overall draw of 13,264,656.

Construction began on the Metrodome on December 23, 1979. It's located on a 22-acre site in the Industry Square district just east of downtown Minneapolis and just west of the West Bank campus of the University of Minnesota. The site is at the juncture of Interstate Highways 94 and 35W.

The stadium itself occupies an area of 415,000 square feet. It's 745 feet to the north and south, 632 feet to the east and west. Homeplate is located in the southwest corner of the building. The interior volume is 70,000,000 cubic feet, and there's a drop of 186 feet from the highest point of the domed ceiling to the middle of the playing field, which is 47 feet below street level.

The playing surface is Super-Turf. The dome is made of two layers of 1/8-inch-thick teflon-coated fiberglass, and it's supported by from 3 to 6 pounds of air pressure per square foot.

There are 36 rows of seats in the lower deck, 32 in the upper deck. In right-field, 7600 seats in the lower deck are retractable to accommodate baseball, reducing the overall capacity to 55,122 for baseball. All seats are the folding arm-chair type of plastic construction.

There are eight entrances to the Metrodome. The four corner entrances open into the first deck. The four side entrances are reached by outside earthen ramps and they open into the second-deck seating area. The Twins' executive and ticket offices may be reached via a west entrance on Chicago Avenue South.

Field dimensions are 343-feet down the leftfield line, 385 to the leftfield power alley, 408 to dead centerfield, 367 to the power alley in rightcenter, and 327 down the line to right. The fence is 13-ft. high in left, 7-ft. in center and 23-ft. in right.

The Metrodome was built under a $55,000,000 grant approved by the Minnesota State Legislature in their 1977 session.

HATCHER, Michael Vaughn 'Mickey' OF No. 9

Born March 15, 1955, in Cleveland, Ohio. Height: 6 ft., 2 in. Weight: 199 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Mesa, Arizona. Acquired: trade with Dodgers, March 30, 1981.

An astounding clutch-hitter for the Twins in 1984 and the favorite of the Metrodome's leftfield stands, Mickey Hatcher is a tribute to the old values of perseverance and hard work. Several times during his early years in the major leagues, Hatcher had to fight off the 'downers,' but he turned the corner in 1983 and then really came into his own as a productive big league ball-player in 1984. In a stretch from August 6 to September 12, Mickey came to the plate 13 times with runners in scoring position from the seventh inning on . . . he went 9-for-9, plus 4 walks and 13 rbi in those 13 occasions! Over the season with runners in scoring position, he batted .344, second on the Twins only to Kent Hrbek's .374. Hatcher led the club in doubles, tied Hrbek in hits and deadlocked with Kirby Puckett and Ron Washington for the team-lead in triples. A tough strikeout, Mickey led the league by fanning just once in every 20.8 at-bats in 1983, was a strong 16.9 in 1984, is 14.7 in the American League and once for every 13.4 trips in his big league career. Hatcher had five 4-hit games, the first of his career, during 1984, equaling the most by a Twin since Rod Carew set the club record of 8 in 1977. Twelfth in batting in the American League overall, Mickey was especially tough on the road, batting .307, ninth in the loop and best on the Twins. He feasted on lefthand pitching, solving them for .333 (59-for-177), as against his .288 (115-for-399) vs. righthanders. Hatcher was named the American League's Player of the Week, August 13-19, when he batted .556 (15-for-27). A four-year Twin, Mickey is edged for seniority on the club only by John Castino, whose status is questionable for 1985. Hatcher is signed through 1989.

Brad Havens took a giant step along the comeback trail when he earned recognition as the starting pitcher on the official 1984 International League All-Star Team. He was also named the league's Most Valuable Pitcher after leading the circuit in strikeouts and complete games and placing second in the earned-run averages. Havens, who has the distinction of winning the strikeout championship and pitching the most complete games in every minor league in which he's played a full season, appears to have re-discovered the magic that made him the Twins' Opening Game starter in 1983. Stingy with the hits, Brad authored two 3-hitters, three 4-hitters and two 5-hitters for Toledo in '84, and blanked Richmond on a 6-hitter, April 23. In 1982, Havens led the Twins' staff in starts and in strikeouts.

HODGE, Ed Oliver

Born April 19, 1958, in Bellflower, California. Height: 6 ft., 2 in. Weight: 192 lbs. Bats and throws lefthanded. Married. Lives in Lakewood, California. Acquired: 5th round, January, 1979, free-agent draft.

A good start at Toledo last year brought lefty Ed Hodge up to the Twins on April 26, when Jim Eisenreich was placed on the disabled list. Hodge's first big league action came in Seattle on May 1, when he pitched creditably but tired in the sixth inning. He got his first win when he worked 7 good innings to beat Oakland in the Metrodome, 4-3, May 6. Ed's first major league loss came in his next start, 4-1, in Milwaukee, May 11. Except for a brief relief stint in July, Hodge was sidelined from June 16 to August 1 with an ailing elbow. Other than that period, he stayed in the rotation through August . . . all his decisions were in starting roles . . . but made just eight relief appearances in September. Ed is a product of Cerritos Junior College in Norwalk, California, but Twins' scout Jesse Flores, Sr., first began following his progress at Artesia High School in Lakewood, California.

DID YOU KNOW??

. . . that the most successful calendar date for the Twins has been July 13. They're 13-3 in games played on that date. September 16, 17-4, is their next best. The club's poorest date over the years has been June 9, 3-19.

Born February 1, 1960, in Dos Palos, California. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 206 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Single. Lives in Los Banos, California. Acquired: 8th round, June, 1981, free-agent draft.

Stan Holmes has put two strong seasons back-to-back after having missed most of the 1982 season when he broke his right thumb when hit by a pitch in the seventh game of the season. Holmes led the Southern League in rbi last year, while placing second with 246 total bases and 16 game-winning-rbi and ranking third in home-runs and slugging-percentage (.485). He was named to the league's All-Star Team as designated-hitter. He was the Most Valuable Player in the California League in 1983, when he led the loop in games-played, total bases (293), slug-pct. (.586), homeruns, rbi and intentional walks (11). He was a catcher that season but was named to the All-Star squad as dh. League managers voted him the Hitter with the Best Power in a late-season poll. Shortly after that season, Topps Chewing Gum named Stan as designated-hitter on their All-Class-A All-Star Team and as Player of the Year for the California League. Holmes was a catcher in high school and an outfielder in college. He was drafted by the Twins after he'd hit .366, with 14 homers and 82 rbi in 62 games, to lead Arizona State to the 1981 College World Series Championship ... a tournament in which he set the record of 17 rbi and tied the records of 13 hits and 22 total bases and was named All-Tourney leftfielder and Most Valuable Player. Stan batted .330 as a sophomore with the Sun Devils and .332, with 17 homers, as a junior. In the summer of 1980, Holmes batted .381, with 16 homers and 70 rbi, in teaming with Twin Dave Meier to lead Fairbanks' Alaska Goldpanners to the National Baseball Congress title in Wichita. After playing his first two seasons in the pros as an outfielder and his third as a catcher, Stan was switched to third base in 1984, although he functioned primarily as a dh. He finished the season with a flourish, collecting three 4-hit games in the final week of August.

Runnerup in the 1984 American League Most Valuable Player poll, and the top vote-getter among everyday players, Kent Hrbek has taken his place among baseball's top players the hard way . . . he earned it!

Hrbek has played in 140-or-more games in each of his three full seasons in the majors and the daily exposure to big league competition has paid off handsomely for Kent and for the Twins. The big slugger enjoyed his most productive season in 1984, coming in eighth in the American League batting chase, fifth in slugging-percentage (.522), seventh in on-base-percentage (.383) and seventh in runs-batted-in. His .301 career average ranks 14th among active major leaguers with 1000-or-more at-bats, 8th in the American League. He was not only named the Twins' Most Valuable Player by the Twin Cities Baseball Writers at the conclusion of the season, but he was also named as their Upper Midwest Player of the Year. He set personal highs in 1984 in all the offensive categories except doubles and triples, and was named the American League Player of the Month for July, when he batted .368, with 10 homers and 31 rbi in 27 games. Hrbek became the first Twin since Rod Carew and Larry Hise in 1977 to bat in 100-or-more runs in a season. He led the Twins in batting with runners in scoring position, going 55-for-145, .379. He also led the 1984 Twins in batting average, runs, rbi, gwrbj (11), total bases (292), slug-pct., on-base-pct., and he tied with Mickey Hatcher for tops in hits. Kent had two 4-hit games during the season to give him a total of four for his career. All told, he had 48 multi-hit games, one less than team leader Kirby Puckett, and now has 99 such over the last two seasons and 147 for his career. Hrbek hit the second inside-the-park homerun of his career, September 11, off Kansas City's Charlie Leibrandt in the Metrodome; he collected the second grand-slam of his career when he picked on California's John Curtis in the Metrodome, April 16; and he had a pair of 2-homer games, July 29 and August 22, to give him four for his career. On July 6 and September 9, Kent hit homers into the Metrodome's second deck to give him a total of seven such titanic blasts. Hrbek enjoys hitting in the Metrodome, where he batted .358 in 1984 (15 homers), as against .263 on the road. For his career, he's .328 (283-for-862) in the dome, .271 away from home. Kent's also tough on lefthand pitching, solving them for .297 last year, including 10 homeruns, and .291 (154-for-529), careerwise. He was .318 vs. righties last year, .305 career. Hrbek is a graduate of Kennedy High School in Bloomington, in the shadow of old Metropolitan Stadium . . . whose lights shone through his bedroom window during his formative years. Kent is in the first season of a five-year contract that makes him the highest-paid athlete in Minnesota sports history.

Born October 30, 1957, in Mexico City, Mexico. Height: 5 ft., 7 in. Weight: 144 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Navojoa, Sonora, Mexico. Acquired: trade with Reynosa, Mexican League, July 21, 1982.

Houston Jimenez took over as the Twins' regular shortstop on April 25, 1984. His presence, coupled with the arrival of centerfielder Kirby Puckett on May 8, solidified the team's defense up the middle and enabled the Twins to maintain a contending position throughout the season. Jimenez' fielding prowess, which has been rated by some observers as 'second only to Ozzie Smith among current major league shortstops,' more than makes up for his light bat. Houston hit well early in the season, though, and was batting .281 through May 18. A spike wound on his right hand sidelined Jimenez for ten days in June. Except for that, he was the club's everyday shortstop until Chris Speier arrived on August 20, and Houston was optioned to Toledo. Speier injured his left heel on August 21, however, and a quick call was made to Jimenez, who was still in the Twin Cities, to rejoin the Twins in Milwaukee for the August 22 twi-niter. Houston's hitting tailed off markedly after that . . . he finished the season with a string of 19 hitless at-bats . . . and Speier and Ron Washington shared the shortstop duties for the last month of the season. His listed height notwithstanding, Jimenez is the majors' smallest player. Last winter, Houston played for Mexicali in the Mexican Pacific League.

DID YOU KNOW???
... that 14 ex-Twins are currently working as major league scouts, 5 in the National League and 9 in the American ... among them Hank Izquierdo ('67 Twins) who covers south Florida and the Caribbean for the Twins, and Jim Lemon (1961-63) who serves as the club's advance scout.

Born June 7, 1958, in Mason City, Iowa. Height: 6 ft., 3 in. Weight: 208 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Edina, Minnesota. Acquired: 3rd round, June, 1979, free-agent draft.

Tim Laudner's great improvement behind the plate in 1984 far overshadowed his somewhat lackluster season at the bat. Coaches Rick Stelmazek and Johnny Podres worked diligently with Laudner's footwork behind the plate all during the season with the result that Tim went from a 24% ratio in throwing out runners to 29% (68-of-232) for his career. This improvement was on the strength of a season in which Laudner nailed 26 of 57 runners trying to steal, 46%, a remarkable increase over his 19% figure of 1983. Tim also came along with the bat over the last half of the season. Batting just .180 on August 9 (43 games), he hit for .231 over his final 44 games to bring his average into the area of respectability.

His surge started with the first 4-hit game of his career, August 10, in Seattle. On September 8, he had a perfect 4-for-4 vs. Texas in the Metrodome. Laudner was especially effective against lefthand pitchers, batting .266 (25-for-94) vs. southpaws, with four of his homeruns. For his career, Tim's 67-for-262, .256, against lefthanders. Laudner was the Twins' regular catcher in 1982, when he was named to the majors' Rookie All-Star Team, and took over again last August 10, after Dave Engle suffered a sprained wrist, proving that regular duty tends to bring out the best in Tim's potentially explosive bat. In the 75 games he started, the Twins came home winners 40 times, a .533 percentage. Uncommonly strong, better than one out of every seven of Laudner's hits during his big league career have been homeruns.

LOMBARDOZZI, Stephen Paul 'Lombo' 2B No. 49

Born April 26, 1960, in Malden, Massachusetts. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 175 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Single. Lives in Auburn, New York. Acquired: 9th round, June, 1981, free-agent draft.

A shortstop throughout his high school, college and professional career, Steve Lombardozzi was switched to second base with Toledo last year when the Mud Hens broke camp with a total of three shortstops. He made the transition smoothly, coming in third in the defensive tables among the league's second sackers. Always a good hitter, Lombardozzi found the jump to triple-A to be a bit of rough going over the first couple of months of the season and was batting just .209 at the end of June. In his final 55 games, however, Steve batted .299 to help spark the Hens to a third-place finish. Lombardozzi began high school at St. John's Prep in Danvers, Massachusetts, but finished at Buchholz High in Gainesville, Florida. He went on from there to Gulf Coast Community College in Panama City, Florida, and to the University of Florida where he was a member of the Southeast Conference champions of 1981. Steve also played three seasons in the tough, semi-pro Cape Cod League, leading his Falmouth team to the championship in 1980. Followed as an amateur by Twins' scouts Spud Chandler and Fred Waters, Lombardozzi began his pro career as the Appalachian League's All-Star shortstop in 1981, when he was fifth in the league in batting and led the circuit's shortstops with a .953 fielding-percentage. The next year, he led California League shortstops with a .947 percentage. He even pitched an inning (and was tagged with a loss!) for Visalia that year. Last fall, Steve played with the Clearwater Twins of the Florida Instructional League.

LYSANDER, Richard Eugene 'Rick' P No. 19

Born February 21, 1953, in Huntington Park, California. Height: 6 ft., 2 in. Weight: 188 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Covina, California. Acquired: trade with Astros, January 12, 1983.

A rough spring training session caused Rick Lysander to start the 1984 season in the International League. An excellent record with Toledo . . . he recorded saves in each of his last four appearances there and finished 23 of the 28 games in which he pitched . . . prompted his recall by the Twins on June 22, when right-hander Larry Pashnick was sent to the Mud Hens. Lysander was primarily a middle reliefer during his first season with the Twins, but after he came up with a strong save in New York last July 21, manager Billy Gardner began to call on him more and more in game-finishing roles. The result was that Rick turned in four more saves (one in each game of the August 18 doubleheader in Boston) over the last six weeks of the season, just one less than ace stopper Ron Davis recorded over that period. Away from the diamond, Lysander is a physiologist, his wife Tracey a dentist.

MEIER, David Keith

'Dave'

OF No. 7

Born August 8, 1959, in Helena, Montana. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 185 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Cambria, California. Acquired: 5th round, June, 1981, free-agent draft.

An excellent find as a reserve outfielder for the Twins last year, Dave Meier needs only a break of some sort to become a standout everyday player in the major leagues. Strong-armed and sure-handed, Meier has also been an impressive hitter throughout his amateur and professional playing days. Of his 13 rbi in '84, 5 were game-winners, including consecutive wins over New York in the Metrodome, July 5 and 6. After the California Angels selected him in the 31st round of the June, 1977, free-agent draft, upon his graduation from Bullard High School in Fresno, Dave went on to make All-Conference at Fresno City College the next spring before enrolling at Stanford University . . . passing up another draft, this time by the St. Louis Cardinals in the 3rd round of the secondary phase in January, 1978. After earning his BA in economics in June of 1981, Meier signed when the Twins acted on scout Lee Irwin's recommendation and made Dave a high draft-choice. After playing with Fairbanks' national semi-pro champs in 1980, Meier put the icing on the cake by batting .405 in his senior year at Stanford. Runnerup in the International League batting race in 1983, Dave was used as a pitcher for an inning in one game, Toledo manager Cal Ermer being that impressed with his throwing arm.

OELKERS, Bryan Alois

Born March 11, 1961, in Zaragoza, Spain. Height: 6 ft., 3 in. Weight: 192 lbs. Bats and throws lefthanded. Married. Lives in Wichita, Kansas. Acquired: 1st round, June, 1982, free-agent draft.

The lefthand pitcher on Topps Chewing Gum's All-Class AA All-Star selections as well as on the Southern League's All-Star Team for 1984, Bryan Oelkers came a long way in proving that the promise he showed as college baseball's Pitcher of the Year for Wichita State in 1982 was not misleading. Oelkers was rushed a little fast when he opened the 1983 season in the Twins' starting rotation. He had time to put things into perspective last season, however, and missed by one of tying Terry Sheehan's 1978 Orlando, Southern League, record for victories. Bryan's wins tied for the league-leadership, while he stood alone at the top of the shutout heap. He was second in the loop in starts, complete games, innings-pitched and strikeouts. Possessed of an excellent breaking pitch to go with his good live fastball, Oelkers' top game of '84 came on August 15, when he tossed a 2-hitter to win in Charlotte, 5-0. His peak strikeout effort came when he fanned 10 Chattanooga batters at Orlando's Tinker Field, July 10. Bryan and teammate Curt Wardle were two of the five pitchers named to Baseball America's 1984 All-Class AA All-Stars.

DID YOU KNOW???

... that four of the Twins' five farm clubs . . . Toledo, Orlando, Kanosha and Elizabethton . . . led their leagues in team pitching in 1984.

Born October 30, 1962, in Los Angeles, California. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 170 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Single. Lives in Norwalk, California. Acquired: signed as free agent, October 23, 1980.

Fourth in the earned-run tables in the Southern League last year, slender righthander Mark Portugal teamed with lefty Bryan Oelkers to give Orlando the best one-two starting punch in the circuit. Portugal also tied for second in the league in shutouts, tied for third in complete games, tied for fourth in wins and was fourth in innings-pitched. In his four professional seasons, Mark has been a consistent winner, going 40-21, for a .656 winning-percentage! Signed out of Norwalk High School by Twins' scout Jesse Flores, Sr., Portugal pitched a good deal of relief in his second season in the pros, but otherwise has been almost exclusively a starting pitcher. His best game of '84 came on July 13, when he tossed a 3-hitter to blank Knoxville in Orlando, 5-0. Should Mark make the majors, he would become a member of baseball's 'all-geography team,' which last year numbered Daryl Boston, Leon Durham, Al Holland, Steve Nicosia, Jim Scranton and the various Washingtons among those on its roster.

PUCKETT, Kirby

Born March 14, 1961, in Chicago, Illinois. Height: 5 ft., 8 in. Weight: 175 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Single. Lives in Chicago. Acquired: 1st round, January, 1982, free-agent draft.

Centerfielder on the Major Leagues' Rookie All-Star Team for 1984, Kirby Puckett made an auspicious debut in the bigs last May 8 when he became just the ninth player in modern major league history to collect four hits in his first 9-inning game. Facing Jim Slaton in Anaheim, Puckett, who was making his debut a day late because of airline travel problems in getting to southern California from Maine, grounded out on his first trip but then strung together four straight singles to become the first player since Ted Cox of Boston, September 18, 1977, to turn the trick. Kirby kept up the pace by hitting safely in his first seven games and in 20 of his first 21 to wind up 16th in the league batting race and in third place in the league's Rookie of the Year voting. Puckett had two more 4-hit games to his credit, connecting in Cleveland, June 26, and against New York in the Metrodome, July 6. In fact, he led the Twins with 49 multi-hit games over the season. He was especially dangerous on the Metrodome's artificial turf, batting .326 (90-for-276) in home games. In the field, Kirby, who was adjudged by Baseball America to have one of the two best outfield arms in the California League in 1983, had 16 assists, second in the majors only to the 18 turned in by St. Louis' Lonnie Smith. A high school All-American at Calumet in Chicago, Puckett batted .378, with a school-record 8 homeruns as a freshman All-Missouri Valley Conference choice at Bradley University in 1980. His father died during the school year, however, and Kirby was out of school a year before enrolling at Triton Junior College in suburban Chicago. In the summer of 1981, though, Puckett was playing for Quincy in the Illinois Collegiate League, where he was spotted by Twins' assistant farm director Jim Rantz. Kirby was second in batting in that league at .390, so in January of 1982 he became the third player selected in baseball's free-agent draft. He was signed that spring by scout Ellsworth Brown, but not until after he batted .472 in 69 games for Triton, with 16 homers, 78 rbi, an .835 slugging-percentage and 42 stolen bases, was named Region IV Player of the Year and led his team into the national junior college finals. Twice that season Puckett belted three homers in a game. He started his pro career just as impressively, leading the Appalachian League in batting, runs, hits, total bases (135), at-bats, stolen bases and outfield assists (11). He was named Topps Chewing Gum's Player of the Month for August in that league. Naturally, he was an All-Star selection, and he was also named the league's Player of the Year by Baseball America. In 1983, Kirby hit safely in the season's first 16 games and was voted by league managers to be the Best Batting Prospect in the California League. They also named him winner of the Eddie Mulligan Award as the league's Rookie of the Year. Needless to say, he was an All-Star pick. He was sixth in the league batting chase and led the loop in at-bats and assists (22). Twice in the league play-offs he stole four bases in a game. That fall, Puckett was second in the Florida Instructional League with a .340 average for Clearwater. He was off to a rather slow start in the International League last year, but Twins' centerfield problems dictated his call-up in early May when catcher Jeff Reed was dispatched to the Mud Hens. The youngest of the Twins last year, Kirby is also the youngest in a family of nine children.

REED, Jeffrey Scott

'Jeff'

C No. 10

Born November 12, 1962, in Joliet, Illinois. Height: 6 ft., 2 in. Weight: 185 lbs. Bats left, throws right. Married. Lives in Elizabethton, Tennessee. Acquired: 1st round, June, 1980, free-agent draft.

Jeff Reed started and finished the 1984 season with the Twins. He was optioned to Toledo when Kirby Puckett was called up on May 7, and was recalled on September 1. In between, he was the top catcher defensively in the International League, posting a .992 fielding-percentage. A take-charge type of catcher, Reed does everything well behind the plate and has an outstanding throwing arm. In fact, he led his league in assists in each of his first four seasons in the pros. At the bat, Jeff is a contact hitter who has fanned just 181 times in 1678 professional at-bats over five seasons. Curiously, his three major league hits going into 1985 have all been doubles. Reed was an All-Star selection in the California League in 1982, and in the Southern in 1983.

SALAS, Mark BruceC No. 12

Born March 8, 1961, in Montebello, California. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 180 lbs. Bats left, throws right. Single. Lives in LaPuente, California. Acquired: major league draft from Cardinals, December 3, 1984.

Drafted by the Twins off the roster of St. Louis' Louisville farm of the class AAA American Association last December, catcher Mark Salas got a 14-game taste of big league life with the Cardinals from June 15 to July 20 last season. A lefthand hitter with power, Salas doubled off Steve Rogers in his first major league at-bat, pinch-hitting for Neil Allen in Montreal last June 19. Mark came into pro baseball as the Cards' 17th choice in the free-agent selections of June, 1979, out of Nogales High School in LaPuente, where he was a high school All-American in football. He led South Atlantic League catchers with a .990 fielding-percentage in 1980, led the Florida State League with 10 sacrifice flies in 1981, and was an All-Star selection in the Texas League in 1983. Salas has also played a good number of games in the outfield the past two seasons.

TRADING REGULATIONS

There are two periods of inter-league trading each year. The longer time period runs from five days after the completion of the World Series until midnight of the final business day of the mid-winter meetings. The second such period occurs from midnight, February 15, through April 1.

Intra-league trading may take place from the last day of the regular season through the following June 15.

Born November 23, 1954, in Grangeville, Idaho. Height: 6 ft., 2 in. Weight: 195 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in El Paso, Texas. Acquired: signed as free agent, December 1, 1982.

After his great season in 1983, things just got off on the wrong foot for Ken Schrom in 1984. In his first exhibition outing, March 8, vs. Houston in Cocoa, Schrom came up with a lame shoulder. He was able to get into just one more spring training game and was obliged to start the regular season on the disabled list. Ken made a couple of rehabilitation-assignment starts for Orlando in April but wasn't activated by the Twins until May 22. By June 2, he was back in the starting rotation. By early August, Schrom had a respectable 4-5 record, but then back problems cropped up after he'd fanned seven California batters, one short of his career high, in 7.1 innings, August 5, en route to a 4-2 win in Anaheim. It was after striking out Juan Beniquez in the 8th inning of that game that Ken was forced to leave the mound with soreness in his back. Although he pitched in pain, Schrom was able to make all but three of his remaining scheduled starts. Ken is one of those rare released players who turn out to be 'discoveries.' After asking for his release from Toronto, he signed with the Twins for 1983 and, after starting that season in the International League, came back to lead the club in ERA, wins, complete games and win-percentage, .652. He was voted the Twins' Pitcher of the Year by the Twin Cities Baseball Writers. A Twins' draftee in June of 1973, Schrom elected to go on to play baseball and football at the University of Idaho before signing with the California Angels when they picked him in June, 1976. He went to Toronto in a trade for pitcher Dave Lemanczyk in June of 1980.

TWINS' TRAINER

Dick Martin has been the Twins' trainer since 1973, after serving a season of apprenticeship under the veteran George Lentz. A graduate of Lynchburg College in his hometown in Virginia, Martin went on to graduate school at Indiana University before taking the trainer's job with the Lynchburg team of the class A Carolina League. A year later, in 1970, that club became affiliated with the Twins and Martin began what has become a 16-year association with Minnesota's entry in the American League. An athletic type himself, the 35-year-old Martin earned his letter in cross-country at Lynchburg, is an avid runner and physical conditioner, a fine golfer, earnest fisherman and a high school and college basketball referee in the off-season. Dick met his wife, the former Diane Gerber, during spring training at Melbourne, Florida, her home, and the couple continues to reside there with their children Laura Beth, 10, and Tyler David, 7.

Born October 25, 1952, in Los Angeles, California. Height: 6 ft., 1 in. Weight: 182 lbs. Bats both, throws right. Married. Lives in Edina, Minnesota. Acquired: trade with White Sox, February 14, 1985.

After a three-season absence, Roy Smalley returned to the Twins in a pre-spring training trade this year in which first baseman Randy Johnson and outfielder Ron Scheer were dispatched to the Chicago White Sox. Smalley was a mainstay at shortstop for the Twins for six seasons before he was dealt to New York's Yankees with pitcher Gary Serun for reliever Ron Davis, infielder Greg Gagne and righthander Paul Boris on April 10, 1982. Roy was the American League's All-Star shortstop (receiving 2,572,331 fan votes) in 1979. He had a tremendous first half that season, batting .373 at the end of June, with 14 homeruns and 56 rbi. In both 1978 and '79, Smalley led all professional shortstops, in the majors or the minors, in homeruns. Defensively, Roy led American League shortstops three seasons running (1977, '78 and '79) in assists, doubleplays and total chances. He set the American League record of 572 assists at shortstop in 1979. Smalley holds Twins' club records of five walks in a game (in Baltimore, May 7, 1978) and 77 sacrifice bunts in a career. He's also one of several Twins to have gotten three doubles in a game. Roy was the Twins' Most Valuable Player in 1978 and '79. Back problems, a congenital spondylolysis condition, flared up on Smalley in 1981, his last full season with the Twins, and he was able to participate in just 37 games at shortstop and 56 overall of the 109 played by the Twins in that strike season. He was sound again in '82, however, and played the first four games of the season with the Twins before going to the Yankees. Roy'd come to the Twins from Texas, with whom he'd signed as the nation's no. 1 draft-choice in January, 1974, in a June 1, 1976, trade that also brought pitchers Bill Singer and Jim Gideon and infielder Mike Cabbage to the Twins in exchange for pitcher Bert Blyleven and shortstop Danny Thompson. The Yankees dealt Smalley to Chicago last July 18, in a swap for pitchers Doug Drabek and Kevin Hickey. Roy's father was a big league shortstop for eleven seasons with the Cubs, the Braves and the Phils, and his mother is the sister of California and ex-Twins' manager Gene Mauch. Smalley is married to a Twin Cities girl, the former Chris Sherry, and they continue to make their home in suburban Edina. Roy was a familiar figure around the Metrodome during the off-season as he worked diligently to get into top shape for a rebound from his disappointing season of 1984.

P No. 48

Born January 21, 1955, in Centerville, Tennessee. Height: 6 ft., 8 in. Weight: 215 lbs. Bats left, throws right. Married. Lives in Centerville. Acquired: trade with Rangers, December 7, 1983.

The 'main man' for the Twins over much of the 1984 season, Mike Smithson established himself as one of baseball's better pitchers as he took his turn on the mound every time scheduled and wound up as the co-leader in starting assignments in the American League with Toronto's Jim Clancy and Texas' Charlie Hough. Smithson came to the Twins as one of the main ingredients of one of the most successful trades in which the Twins have ever been involved. He, pitcher John Butcher and catcher Sam Sorce came over from Texas in exchange for outfielder Gary Ward in a trade that enabled the Twins' pitching staff to go from 26th in the majors in 1983 to 4th in the league in 1984. The tallest player in the big leagues, Mike won his first three starts of '84 and just pitched consistently well throughout the season, his ERA never exceeding 3.89. His guttiest outing came against his ex-mates in Arlington, September 15, when he tossed a 6-hitter to win his first major league shutout, 1-0, and enable the Twins to hold on to a tie for the division lead with Kansas City. In his first complete game for the Twins, April 16, vs. California in the Metrodome, Smithson established his personal big league high of 9 strikeouts. Originally a member of the Boston organization, Mike went over to Texas in an April 9, 1982, trade for lefthander John Henry Johnson. Smithson has been exclusively a starting pitcher in the majors, and yet only seven times in his career . . . and just once last year . . . has he failed to last at least four innings in any start.

STENHOUSE, Michael Steven 'Mike' OF No. 33

Born May 29, 1958, in Pueblo, Colorado. Height: 6 ft., 1 in. Weight: 195 lbs. Bats left, throws right. Single. Lives in Cranston, Rhode Island. Acquired: trade with Expos, January 9, 1985.

Mike Stenhouse has an impressive history of long-ball hitting, belting 89 homeruns in his five professional seasons. Stenhouse came to the Twins in a January swap for lefthander Jack O'Connor, after having spent most of last season with the Montreal Expos, with whom he'd signed as their no. 1 choice in the secondary phase of the January, 1980, free-agent draft. Mike had passed up an offer from the Oakland A's the previous June after they'd made him a first-round selection in the regular phase. An Ivy Leaguer out of Harvard University, where he led the nation's collegians in batting in 1979, Stenhouse is the son of Dave Stenhouse, present Brown University baseball coach who was the starting pitcher for the American League in the second All-Star Game of the 1962 season when he was a pitcher for the Washington Senators. Young Mike was born in Colorado, in fact, during a season in which his dad was a 16-game winner for the Pueblo Dodgers of the Western League. Another Stenhouse, Mike's brother, Dave, Jr., is a catcher in the Toronto organization who also led the nation's collegians in batting while with Holy Cross in 1981, and who batted .235 for AAA Syracuse in the International League last year. The Twins' Stenhouse began his pro career as a first baseman, but has played the outfield most of the time since 1981, although he was the American Association's All-Star first baseman in 1983, a season in which he led the league in hitting, on-base-percentage (.490) and slugging-percentage (.681), was the league's Most Valuable Player, the first baseman on Topps' All-Triple-A All-Star squad and the Expos' organization Player of the Month for June. Mike had two tours of duty with Montreal that year, from July 27 to August 17, and again after the September close of the American Association season. He'd made his big league debut the previous September but didn't get into a big league game until October 3, in Pittsburgh, a game which coincidentally was the last of Willie Stargell's career with the Pirates. Stenhouse' first big league hit came on July 28, 1983, a double off St. Louis' Bob Forsch in Montreal. Mike has drawn a high percentage of walks during his career and, in fact, led the Florida State League in walks and game-winning rbi (12) in 1980. He was the American Association's Player of the Week last May 7-13, just before his call-up to Montreal. On March 31, 1984, playing first base for the Expos in an exhibition at Orlando, Stenhouse belted a 2nd-inning homerun off Twin Al Williams. Last winter, Mike played for Estrellas in the Dominican Republic, batting .269.

TEUFEL, Timothy Shawn

Born July 7, 1958, in Greenwich, Connecticut. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 175 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Greenwich. Acquired: 2nd round, June, 1980, free-agent draft.

Tim Teufel had the unenviable task of taking over for John Castino in the Twins' lineup when the 1984 season began. When Castino's back injury proved of season-long duration, however, Teufel's presence became a life-saver for the club and he finished fourth in the American League Rookie of the Year voting and fourth in the Seagram's computer tally among rookies. Tim's good power at the plate is emphasized by the fact that he broke Bernie Allen's 1962 club record for homeruns by a second baseman. He had the second 2-homer game of his career, August 10, in Seattle, when he set the Twins' 1984 high of 10 total bases in a game. Teufel tied the club record of two sacrifice flies in a game, July 22, in New York, and had two 4-hit games . . . May 12 in Milwaukee and July 17 in Baltimore . . . to give him a total of three such for his brief career. All told, Tim had 40 multi-hit games over the season. He's especially tough on lefthand pitching, batting .299 (50-for-167) against them in '84 and .302 (58-for-192), careerwise. No slouch in the field, either, Teufel led American League second sackers in games (157) and assists (485), while finishing fourth in percentage (.984). Tim was a 1980 All-American at Clemson, where he batted .396 and led his team into the College World Series.

P No. 16

Born April 19, 1960, in Hempstead, New York. Height: 6 ft., 4 in. Weight: 209 lbs. Bats and throws lefthanded. Married. Lives in Longwood, Florida. Acquired: 2nd round, June, 1981, free-agent draft.

Off to somewhat of a slow start in '84 . . . he lost his first three decisions and was just 4-7 in mid-June . . . lefty Frank Viola really turned it on starting with a 3-2 win in Texas on Flag Day. He was 14-5 from that point, with a 3.18 ERA, and went on to be named the lefthand starting pitcher on the Associated Press' Major League All-Star Team for 1984. He was also named to the same role on Seagram's computer-determined American League All-Star squad. The Twin Cities Chapter of the Baseball Writers named him as the Twins' Pitcher of the Year and as the Most Improved Twin of 1984. Viola had the most victories of any southpaw in the majors and the most by a Twins' pitcher since Jerry Koosman had 20 in 1979. In addition, Frank led Twins' hurlers in ERA, win-percentage (.600), innings-pitched, complete games and strikeouts, and was one short of the major league lead in shutouts. He reeled off a streak of six straight wins, best of his career, June 14 to July 12. He had two 3-hitters . . . over Boston in the Metrodome, 7-0, May 19, and over California in the dome, July 28, 6-1. He also had three 4-hitters. Viola set a personal career high, and a 1984 Twins' peak, when he fanned 11 Texas batters on September 7 in Minnesota. Frank was signed by scout Herb Stein out of St. John's University on Long Island where he majored in accounting.

Mike Walters pitched consistently well for the Twins over the first three months of the 1984 season. In fact, his ERA didn't go over 2.00 until July 14, in his 18th appearance. On April 25 and 26, in the Metrodome, Walters earned back-to-back saves over New York. Over his last six outings including that July 14 game, however, he gave up 8 runs in 7.1 innings. As a result, when roster moves had to be made to make room for Pat Putnam and Curt Wardle on August 30, Mike was sent down to Toledo along with lefty Len Whitehouse. The two of them returned to the Twins on September 9 but neither saw any action the rest of the way. A five-time free-agent draftee, Walters signed with California after the June draft of 1977. He became a Twin along with Tom Brunansky in the trade for Doug Corbett and Rob Wilfong. Mike went to high school in Alta Loma, California, and also attended Chaffey Junior College there.

Curt Wardle is expected to play a major role in the Twins' scheme of things for 1985. He came to the club last August 30 after a spectacular season out of the bullpen in the Southern League. Wardle will likely get a shot at being the intimidating type of lefthand short reliever, with his lively fastball and hard slider, that manager Billy Gardner has been looking for, but Gardner hasn't ruled out the possibility of working Curt into his starting rotation. The winner of the 1984 Sherry Robertson Award as the top player in the Twins' minor league system, Wardle had a 3-0 record, with a 1.71 ERA, for Orlando through June 5 . . . but didn't have a save to his credit! He was to get all 17 of his league-leading saves in his last 30 appearances and he didn't suffer a loss until his very last game, August 26, when an unearned run beat him in Birmingham. Curt appeared in only two games for the Twins, fanning 5 in just 4 innings with his 90-mph fastball. Ironically, the two runs off him were homeruns, whereas he'd given up just one roundtripper all season long in the Southern. Wardle put up the best numbers of any reliever in the history of that league and he led all league pitchers in 'lowest batting average against,' as he held opposition batters to a collective .156 batting average. He was named to Baseball America's All-Class AA All-Star Team. From May 30 through August 11, Curt allowed just one run to score, and that was a runner left by a previous pitcher! In 1984 spring training at Melbourne, Florida, Wardle gave no hint of the kind of season he was about to have. One day, after Curt had been hit hard by some righthand triple-A hitters, Twins' minor league pitching instructor Jim Shellenback suggested he throw his fastball to righthanders using a cross-seam grip. Immediately, Wardle found that his fastball began to ride in on the righthanders, jamming them, instead of moving back out over the plate. A product of San Bernardino Valley Junior College and UC-Riverside, where he was followed by Twins' scout Jesse Flores, Jr., Curt placed third among qualifiers for the ERA championship of the California League in 1983. Wardle reported to the Clearwater Twins of the Florida Instructional League last fall, where he was used as a starting pitcher and posted a 4-0, 2.38, record in six games.

DID YOU KNOW???

. . . that the Twins have had eleven 20-game winners but only once have there been two in a season. Dave Boswell and Jim Perry each won 20 in 1969.

Born April 29, 1952, in New Orleans, Louisiana. Height 5 ft., 11 in. Weight: 163 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in New Orleans. Acquired: trade with Dodgers, March 26, 1980.

Ron Washington put in eleven seasons in the minor leagues, mostly in the Kansas City and Los Angeles organizations, before he got his first real big league opportunity with the Twins in September of 1981. His work as a shortstop-utilityman for the Twins, however, is proof that cream does rise to the top. Washington, a good offensive player, has always been available for use as manager Billy Gardner sees fit. Most of that has been at shortstop, where Ron has appeared in 269 games in his three-plus seasons with the club. He was the regular over the last two weeks of the '84 season, in fact, as Gardner sought more punch from his shortstop position. Washington responded by increasing his batting average 18 points by season's end, hitting .346 in the 13 games. The oldest of the Twins, Ron tied Mickey Hatcher and Kirby Puckett as the team's co-leader in triples. Last winter, Washington played second base for the Aragua Tigers of the Venezuelan League, teaming up with Twins' shortstop prospect Alvaro Espinoza in an unselfish effort to accelerate the young Venezuelan's progress toward a regular job with the Twins. Ron batted .274 for the winter season.

WHITEHOUSE, Leonard Joseph, Jr. 'Len' P No. 22

Born September 10, 1957, in Burlington, Vermont. Height: 5 ft., 9 in. Weight: 174 lbs. Bats and throws lefthanded. Single. Lives in Burlington. Acquired: trade with Rangers, November 1, 1982.

Len Whitehouse saw service as the Twins' lefthand short relief man for the most part in 1984. His longest stretch was a 3.2-inning scoreless stint in the nightcap of a twi-niter in Detroit, June 29. Manager Billy Gardner preferred to use Whitehouse in those one-on-one situations when it was important to get a particular lefthand batter out. Len has responded by posting a .750 win-percentage in his two seasons with the Twins. He started 1984 with Toledo but was called up on April 25 when lefty Keith Comstock was optioned. Whitehouse went back to the International League club on August 30 when roster room had to be made as Pat Putnam and Curt Wardle were added to the club. Len arrived back on September 9, but saw no service down the stretch. Over the season, Whitehouse was the stingiest Twin reliefer when it came to stranding runners inherited. Of the 30 men on base when Len came into games over the season, only 6 scored.

YETT, Richard Martin 'Rich' P No. 37

Born October 6, 1962, in Pomona, California. Height: 6 ft., 2 in. Weight: 187 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Single. Lives in Chino, California. Acquired: 26th round, June, 1980, free-agent draft.

A good season in the International League has thrust Rich Yett into the thick of things where the Twins' starting rotation is concerned. Just 22, Yett has already pitched 649.1 professional innings. Last year, Rich was third in the International in strikeouts and was tied for third in wins and complete games. His top effort was a 2-hitter to win in Maine, August 15, 6-0. Possessed with a good fastball and an excellent slider, Yett was in the race for the league's ERA crown through that August 15 date. His last three outings, however, raised his figure 41 points from 2.84. Rich came to the Twins' organization directly from Don Lugo High School in Chino, California, where his progress had been followed by club scouts Vern Borning and Jesse Flores, Jr. A unique factor in Yett's career is the fact that he's spent one full season at each rung up the ladder of the Twins' farm system. The only rung left is the major leagues!

BROERSMA, Eric Adrian 'Dutch' P No. 58

Born January 24, 1960, in Davis, California. Height: 6 ft., 4 in. Weight: 225 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Single. Lives in Los Alamitos, California. Acquired: 3rd round, June, 1981, free-agent draft.

An impressive prospect who was signed out of UCLA in 1981, righthander Eric Broersma has an excellent fastball, one that prompted his rapid advancement from class A to AA not long after he'd signed that first contract. Broersma, in fact, has averaged 8.4 strikeouts per-9-inning game during his four-season career. In the AAA International League last year, his ratio was 10.6 strikeouts per game, the best in the circuit. A good fielder, Eric has made just one error in his professional career. He earned his BA in economics at UCLA. Broersma passed up a draft by the Oakland A's when they made him their 15th choice in the June, 1980, selections. After spending his first professional season as a starter, Eric was switched to the bullpen in 1982. Willing to take the ball, he's averaged 46 appearances in the three seasons since.

BURTT, Dennis Allen P No. 52

Born November 29, 1957, in San Diego, California. Height: 6 ft. Weight: 187 lbs. Bats both, throws right. Married. Lives in Orange, California. Acquired: signed as free agent, December 31, 1984.

After nine seasons in the Boston Red Sox' organization, righthander Dennis Burtt was signed to a Toledo contract by Twins' scout Jesse Flores, Sr., last winter. Burtt was Boston's second choice in the January, 1976, free-agent draft and signed a few months later after an impressive spring season with Santa Ana Junior College. After a fine first pro season in the New York-Penn League, Dennis was on the injured list for much of 1977. He bounced back from that to post consistently-winning records over the next several seasons and, in fact, has a .579 win-percentage (70-51) and a 3.52 ERA for his professional career, most of which has been as a starting pitcher. In 1983, Burtt was on the shelf for a good portion of the season with injuries to his groin and to his left toe. In high school at Villa Park, Dennis was an All-League wide receiver in football and played in California's North-South All-Star Game.

... that Randy Bush' .400 pinch-hitting average in 1984 is the highest ever turned in by a Twin with 20-or-more pinch at-bats in a season. Don Mincher was used 64 times as a pinch-hitter in 1962, most ever by a Twin, although Sandy Valdespino, 1965, and Jose Morales, 1978, share the record for most pinch at-bats by a Twin, 47. Morales had the most Twins' pinch-hits in a season, 14, in 1978, and Mincher connected for the most pinch homers, 4, in 1964. As a team, Twins' pinch-hitters topped out at a .296-clip in 1967.

CHIFFER, Floyd JohnP No. 50

Born April 20, 1956, in Glen Cove, New York. Height: 6 ft., 2 in. Weight: 180 lbs. Bats and throws righthanded. Married. Lives in Lakewood, California. Acquired: trade with Padres, December 7, 1984.

A righthand bullpen specialist, Floyd Chiffer was picked up by the Twins during last December's winter meetings in a trade with San Diego for catcher Ray Smith. Chiffer had come into the Padres' organization out of UCLA when he was selected as their 5th-round choice in the June, 1978, free-agent draft. Floyd worked as a starting pitcher in his first professional season, but was switched to the bullpen in 1979 and has had just one start since then. That came in his last big league appearance, in fact, when he went four no-decision innings at San Francisco last September 24. After a fine rookie season with the Padres in 1982, Chiffer found himself pushed aside by the emergence of Luis DeLeon, Dave Dravecky, Goose Gosage, Greg Harris, Andy Hawkins and Craig Lefferts as San Diego's relief corps the past couple of seasons. Selected by California as their 8th choice in the free-agent draft of June, 1974, and by St. Louis in the 23rd round of the June, 1977, draft, Floyd held off signing until he'd earned his BA in history from UCLA. A good fielder, Chiffer has yet to make an error in 81 big league games.

KLAWITTER, Thomas Carl'Tom'*P No. 57

Born June 24, 1958, in LaCrosse, Wisconsin. Height: 6 ft., 3 in. Weight: 195 lbs. Bats right, throws left. Single. Lives in Janesville, Wisconsin. Acquired: signed as free agent, May 12, 1983.

Lefty Tom Klawitter was an extremely pleasing development for manager Cal Ermer's Toledo Mud Hens last year. Klawitter had been signed by Twins' farm director George Brophy the previous spring after he'd been released by the Los Angeles Dodgers' organization. Tom had been the Dodgers' 15th pick in the June, 1980, free-agent draft after he'd pitched four seasons for the University of Wisconsin at LaCrosse. Although he'd pitched some double-A ball for the Dodgers, Klawitter was assigned to Wisconsin Rapids for 1983 by the Twins and there was some question as to whether he'd be able to make the jump to AAA in 1984. Tom answered the questions, though, by moving right into the Toledo rotation and staying there all season, winding up 11th in the league's ERA chase. His top effort was a 3-hitter to blank pennant-winning Columbus, 7-0, July 23. Klawitter is a product of Craig High School in Janesville.

A 1983 Twin, Scott Ullger spent 1984 honing his talents as a first baseman in the International League. Until 1983, Ullger had played primarily at third base and the outfield. That season, virtually all of his action with the Twins was at first base. Last year, Scott posted a higher fielding average (.994) than the International's leading first baseman but played nine games too few at the position to qualify. Blessed with good power, Ullger was first spotted by scout Herb Stein when he played three seasons at shortstop for St. John's University in Jamaica, New York, a couple of years before Frank Viola matriculated there. Scott was a criminal justice major. As a pro, he played third base in his first three seasons, outfield in his next three. That versatility, coupled with his consistently good record with the bat, stands Ullger in good stead in his effort to reclaim a spot on the Twins. A good clutch-hitter throughout his career, Scott tied for fifth in game-winning rbi (11) in the International last season.

DID YOU KNOW???

... that although the Nettles, Graig and Jim, are the only brothers ever to have played for the Twins, there've been six other Twins who've had brothers who played in the majors. They're Ken Brett, Dave Edwards, Camilo Pascual, Jim Perry, Phil Roof and Ted Sadowski. In addition, Don Lee, Mike Adams, Roy Smalley and Mike Stenhouse are sons of big leaguers, Jim Shellenback is a nephew of one, Rich Chiles is a cousin of Hall of Famer George Kelly and Ron Perranoski and Stan Perzanowski are distant cousins.
